

CALL FOR

Book Authors and Editors

Since 2005, The American Ceramic Society (ACerS) and John Wiley & Sons has teamed up as publishing partners, bringing together ACerS' 110 years of experience of serving ceramics students and professionals with Wiley's 200 plus years of publishing expertise. A main goal of the partnership is to ensure that ACerS members and the larger international ceramics community can access the highest quality content available, enabling professionals to conduct research, teach, and make advancements in their fields.

ACerS-Wiley is currently seeking new authors or volume editors for textbooks, handbooks, or reference books on ceramics and ceramics-related topics. Examples of book topics include, but are not limited to: oxides, non-oxides, and composites; environmental and energy issues; fuel cells; ceramic armor; nanotechnology; glass and optical materials; electronic/functional ceramic technology and applications; advanced ceramic materials; bioceramics; ceramic engineering, manufacturing, processing, and usage; ceramic design and properties; and health and safety issues.

If you are an interested author or editor, or simply have an idea that you wish to share, please contact:
